Floodwaters Hit 5 States

Melting Snow, Heavy Rains Swell Rivers

Disaster Workers Take Aid To 75 Stricken Counties

By United Press International

Devastating floods herded 20,000 persons from their homes in five Appalachian Mountain states Tuesday and a March blizzard dumped foot-deep snows and high-way-blocking drifts on the Great Plains.

A massive storm system pummeled the nation from the Pacific Northwest to New England and lashed the Southland with a one-two assault of tornadic winds and house-busting floods.

Flood waters triggered by torrential rains and melting snows turned placid mountain creeks and streams into raging torrents overnight. An estimated 20,000 persons—10,000 in Kentucky alone—fled ahead of swirling waters in Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama.

At least eight persons drowned and the toll threatened to go higher. Heavy rains kept falling over the flood-washed mountain watersheds and a Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) official said the flood "looks like a big one" that could equal or surpass a disastrous 1957 flood that claimed at least 14 lives.

Four persons—believed to be a father, mother, and two children—drowned in the rampaging Sequatchie River near Jasper, Tenn.

Two men were swept to their deaths by swollen streams in West Virginia's hardscrabble McDowell County. A railroad worker was killed when a train overturned at a washout near Sheldona, Ky. A 21-year-old woman drowned when her car plunged through a flood-weakened bridge near Huntsville, Ala.

The floods came close on the heels of tornadoes that killed five persons in the South Monday. Gusty winds and heavy rains lashed the Southland Tuesday and twister alerts still flew in 43 counties in Alabama and Georgia's "Tornado Alley."

Acting Gov. Wilson W. Wyatt asked President Kennedy to declare 20 eastern Kentucky counties a major disaster area. Gov. W. W. Barron of West Virginia asked a like declaration for 11 West Virginia counties.

In addition to the 10,000 persons homeless in the eastern Kentucky mountains, more than 4,000 were forced from their homes in Virginia, at least 3,000 in West Virginia and additional thousands in Tennessee and Alabama.

Emergency shelters were set up throughout the floodlands. National Guard units were called out to help in rescue and relief work. Rock slides blocked highways and ripped across railroad right-of-ways.

Eighty-five per cent of the schools in northwestern Kansas and many in eastern Colorado closed as heavy, blinding snow drove eastward from the Rockies.

The storm heaped a foot of snow in sections of Colorado and Wyoming and up to 10 inches in northwestern Kansas. Winds up to 60 miles an hour whipped the snow into drifts up to four feet deep on the high plains. Authorities said many roads were impassable. Stranded trucks and cars littered highways.

JFK Brazil Visit Still Indefinite

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House said Tuesday that no new date has been set for President Kennedy's twice-postponed trip to Brazil.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger was asked about a comment from Brazilian Finance Minister Santiago Dantas Monday that Kennedy would visit Brazil this year.

"We've always had it in mind that we would go to Brazil at some time," Salinger said, "but I know of no definite time being worked out at the moment."

Committees Urge Bigger Tax Slash

WASHINGTON (AP) — A majority report of Congress's Joint Economic Committee recommended Tuesday that any tax cut this year be bigger than President Kennedy had proposed.

So did the Republican minority report.

But congressional uncertainty about whether, and how much, to cut taxes and revise them was mirrored in the many-sided 10-page report.

The joint committee is a study group only. But it includes some members of the committees actually handling the tax legislation—Ways and Means in the House and Finance in the Senate.

Kennedy recommended an income tax cut program eventually reaching a net reduction of $10.6 billion a year. The 1963 reduction would be about $3 billion.

The joint committee's Democratic majority recommended a $6-billion cut this year as the first step and advocated also eliminating some excise taxes but not those on tobacco and alcohol. It suggested the income tax cut be arranged to provide $200 this year for each married couple with a income of $4,000 or more.

The Republican minority also said the administration proposed first-year cut is not big enough. It said Congress should study the matter further but "an annual reduction of from $7 billion to $8 billion might be about right."

As if in warning, Rusk made it clear in a speech before the National Advertising Council the United States would not accept a "normal situation" any permanent Soviet military force on Cuba.

The United States, he said, must "look forward to the time when all Soviet military units will be out of Cuba." U. S. policy, he added, calls for the "continued outflow" of Soviet troops from Cuba.

The secretaries warned again there would be a "very dangerous situation" if Soviet troops acted against Cubans. The same would apply to any interference with U. S. aerial surveillance of Cuba, or any aggression launched from Cuba against a hemispheric neighbor, he said.

Rusk said the hemisphere's armed forces, including those of the United States, are ready to stop Russia from using its Cuba-based forces outside the island.

He said the hemisphere's goal is the return of a free Cuba. He predicted that the Castro regime will soon be in "complete isolation" from its neighbors.

The present U. S. policy does not call for invasion of Cuba, Rusk said, but it has given no "unqualified commitment" against an invasion.

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet officer was fed false military information which he unwittingly passed on to a U. S. agent for months before the trap was sprung, the government newspaper Izvestia said Tuesday.

Izvestia indicated, in the concluding article of a two-part series on the three-year-old case of "Lt. Col. P." that the officer was sentenced to death.

The newspaper articles were titled "Duel in the Dark." Izvestia said the story was told to show that Western intelligence activities in the Soviet Union never cease.

Negro Held In 9th Case Of Strangling

Police Question Handyman In Death Of Belmont Matron

BELMONT, Mass. (AP) — A Negro handyman was arrested Tuesday in the nylon stocking slaying of a Belmont housewife, the ninth woman strangled in greater Boston since last June.

The man, identified as Roy Smith, was arrested in Cambridge and charged with suspicion of murder before he was turned over to Belmont police.

He was charged in connection with the death of Bessie Goldberg, 62, whose body was discovered Monday on the living-room floor of her fashionable 10-room Dutch Colonial-style home of brick and shingles.

A nylon stocking had been stripped from Mrs. Goldberg's left leg and tightly knotted around her neck. Police Chief Donald S. Robinson said an attempt had been made to rape her.

The arrest was the first in the nine stranglings. None of the others has been solved.

Cambridge police said Smith's curiosity had led to his arrest. He was looking out the window of a third-floor apartment near Central Square.

Two patrolmen and a detective recognized his face from a police circular. They went up the stairs and one rapped on the door. When he opened it he was grabbed after a brief struggle.

Mrs. Goldberg's death stunned the community and brought renewed fear among women who were mindful of the unsolved string of stranglings.

Ironically, Mrs. Goldberg had sent for the man through a state employment agency to help her clean house in preparation for a party.

Instead, the slightly-built woman lay dead when her husband, Israel, 68, returned home from his real estate office at 4 p.m.

He had called his wife at 2:30 p.m. He quoted her as saying at the time that the cleaning man was there. There was no indication anything was wrong.

Their daughter, Leah, was at work at the time as a teacher in Cambridge.

TFX Fighter Deal Proper, McNamara Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said Tuesday selection of General Dynamics Corp. to build the new TFX fighter plane was proper.

He accused the Senate Investigations subcommittee of undermining public confidence in the integrity and judgment of the highest officials in the Department of Defense by the way it is handling an inquiry into the award.

In a letter to Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., the subcommittee chairman, McNamara objected fragmentarily to what he called a preliminary release of portions of testimony by witnesses who are still familiar with part of the considerations underlying the decision.

The subcommittee is attempting to determine whether the Boeing Co. of Seattle, Wash., rather than General Dynamics, of Fort Worth, Tex., should have received the contract to develop the TFX. Some of its witnesses have claimed Boeing offered a better design at a lower price.

The move followed similar steps in recognizing the new revolutionary governments of Iraq and Yemen, both of which have proclaimed allegiance to the United Arab Republic of President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

The State Department noted the Syrian rebels had pledged to "honor the international obligations" of the previous regime. This factor, plus evidence a new government is in firm control and enjoys the support of its people, governs U. S. diplomatic recognition of any new regime.

U.S. Recognizes New Syrian Regime

Over 20,000 Leave Homes In Wide Area

At Least Eight Drown; W. Va., Ky. Towns Bear Brunt

By CHARLES FLINNER

RICHLANDS, Va. (UPI) — Flood waters swirled with bulldozer force through hundreds of Appalachian mountain valleys on Tuesday, spreading death and destruction in five states.

At least eight persons drowned—including four persons swept away together—in the melting snow and rain fed torrents that raged in sections of West Virginia, Kentucky, Virginia, Tennessee and Alabama.

An estimated 20,000 persons fled their homes some only minutes ahead of flood waters and others rescued by boats and amphibious vehicles from house tops.

Kentucky's eastern coal mining region appeared hardest hit with an estimated 10,000 homeless.

The bodies of a man, woman and two children were recovered late Tuesday from the flooded Sequatchie River near Jasper, Tenn.

Tennessee state police said the four were believed to be members of the same family. They were buried into the Sequatchie early Tuesday by flood waters and an estimated 10,000 homeless.

Livingston Merchant, sent to Europe by President Kennedy to sell the multinational force idea, was told in a round of conference that the British see difficulties ahead.

Among the difficulties, in the British view, is the expense—$84 million a year for the next 10 years as Britain's share of the surface fleet's cost.

The U. S. idea is a fleet of 25 surface ships armed with Polaris missiles and manned by mixed crews taken from the various NATO nations.

Britain wants a multinational force based on the assignment of individual national nuclear forces to the NATO pool.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has earmarked $840 million to build Britain's Polaris submarine fleet, which will be linked to NATO.

Authorities feared the current floods might exceed those of six years ago.

Emergency shelters were set up in all four states. National guard units were called out to help in relief work. Highways were blocked by mud slides and water. Trees were uprooted. Houses were ripped apart. Emergency rationing of drinking water was ordered in some towns.

Disaster Areas

The Cumberland and Big Sandy Rivers spilled down the narrow mountain gorges of eastern Kentucky. President Kennedy was asked to declare 20 Kentucky and 11 West Virginia counties a major disaster area.

Flood waters raced down Appalachian Mountain valleys in a triangular area from Logan, W. Va., south through Kentucky and Tennessee to Chattanooga and north to Bluefield on the Virginia-West Virginia border.

The floods were the second to hit parts of the East in a week. Twenty persons died and more than 4,000 families were made homeless in the torrents which raced through the Ohio Valley last week.

Columbia Review Editors Resign

NEW YORK (UPI) — Seven editors of the Columbia Review, a student literary quarterly published at Columbia University, have resigned in protest against university interference. It was learned Tuesday.

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — Thirty of the 67 persons who gathered to watch the sport of cockfighting at a farm near Upperco have posted $11.45 collateral with the Towson Magistrate's Court.

The 67, who were issued summonses charging disorderly conduct, have been ordered to post collateral by Friday or face arrest. A hearing is set for March 22.

The defendants, along with two others charged with keeping a disorderly house, were surprised by Baltimore County police in a raid late Saturday night.

Longshoremen Elect Scotto

BALTIMORE (AP) — Anthony Scotto, son-in-law of the late Anthony (Tough Tony) Anastasio was elected Tuesday to succeed him as vice president of the International Longshoremen's Association.

A union spokesman said Scotto, 28, was unanimously chosen to be one of the ILA's 21 vice presidents at meeting of the union's executive Council in Baltimore.

The spokesman quoted William V. Bradley, ILA president, and Harry Hasselgren, union secretary-treasurer, as saying: "Scotto has demonstrated real ability in many grueling negotiating sessions. Like Anthony Anastasio before him, Scotto fights for the membership."

Scotto stepped up to the job of business manager of Local 1814, the ILA's largest local with a membership of 8,000 dues payers, when his father-in-law died recently. The local dominates most of the Brooklyn waterfront.

Colombian Official Enters Hospital

BALTIMORE (AP) — Alberto Lleras Camargo, former president of the Republic of Colombia, was flown to Baltimore Tuesday for treatment at Johns Hopkins Hospital of what doctors believed to be "a slight bleeding outside the brain."

Lleras was stricken in Rio de Janeiro as he and former Brazilian president Juscelino Kubitschek were preparing for a Latin American tour to survey the needs and results of President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress program.

Dr. A. Earl Walker, Johns Hopkins neurosurgeon who flew to Lima, Peru, last Friday night and accompanied Lleras to Baltimore, said, "I couldn't take all this sitting down."

"The time will never come," he added, "when I can give as much as I have received. This has been a happy career."

Downtown Cumberland Test Area Is Proposed For Cleanup Program

A "downtown" test area has been proposed for a cleanup campaign which might form the basis for a year-around program. At a followup meeting held yesterday in the office of Mayor Earl D. Chaney, Street Commissioner Lucile Roeder said discussions were held on a program for both residential and business sections. It was decided that a downtown area would be first to be tried and depending on when details can be worked out and a report made to Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan who is ill, Mrs. Roeder said the committee "hopefully" eyes April 1 as the starting date.

The first area to be tried, under present plans, would be Mechanic Street, Centre Street and Liberty Street from Williams Street to Bedford. Alternate parking would be involved in the proposal under study as well as citizen cooperation.

Time when parking would be affected in the early morning hours is yet to be worked out, it was said.

Some discussion was also given to a residential test area, but the problems involved are so many, that it was decided to try one area at a time. Further consideration will be given to the residential cleanup test area when the group meets again soon, Mrs. Roeder said.

Emphasized at the meeting was the "citizen's cooperation" part of a year-around program under which a campaign would be waged setting forth the theme that a certain responsibility also rests with the property owner and resident.

It is possible that when the test is run and alternate parking instituted, cards could be placed on autos in violation of the alternate parking ruling reminding them they are in violation and under a permanent setup would have been towed away.

During the temporary period, signs would be posted in the test areas.

Chief B. Frank Gaffney told Mrs. Roeder that in reporting results of the original meeting to Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan who has been ill, the commissioner expressed concern over where cars would go if parking patterns were changed on streets.

James R. Smith of Avenue B, Potomac Park, has been appointed used car manager of Gurley's Garage with offices at 212 Greene Street.

Smith was affiliated with Gurley's from 1957-61, worked for Thompson Buick Corporation for two years and then rejoined the former firm.

Chief Gaffney said he would report the discussions held yesterday to Commissioner Keegan and see what his reaction is to the test proposal. Some discussion was also held with Sgt. Gordon A. Hite concerning the alternate parking program being conducted on Independence and Columbia streets, how it is enforced and the cooperation given by the public.

Mrs. Roeder said that the test areas are "tough" ones because of heavy traffic and parking. She said she realized such a program will cost something but it will cost more if we do not do something."

The test period, she believes, will give the city an idea of how it can best do the job and the citizen an idea of how he can help in his own neighborhood.

If possible, Mrs. Roeder said, she would like to have public meetings on any cleanup proposals, for often the citizen himself comes up with ideas which are more workable than ones suggested.

"At the same time," she added, "we want the citizen to work with us and help to create this cleanup program."

In addition to Mrs. Roeder, also assisting in the program are Robert C. Petersen, manager of the Chamber of Commerce and also representing downtown merchants; C. Glenn Watson Jr., South Cumberland Business and Civic Association; Ray Valentine, Bray and Elwood Groves.

street superintendent; city Engineer C. R. Nuzum; Police Chief B. Frank Gaffney and Police Sgt. Gordon A. Hite.

Garden Club Plans Canal Hike, Chartered Bus Trip

The Garden Club of Cumberland voted $10 to the Allegany County Bird Club at the meeting conducted by Mrs. J. Donald Gibson Monday evening at the Woman's Civic Club house.

Plans were formulated for a hike along the C&O canal, tentatively set for April. Donald Emerson of the science department at Frostburg State Teachers College, will be the leader.

A chartered bus trip to Longwood Gardens and Winterthur at Wilmington, Del., which the club is sponsoring May 3 and 4, was discussed. The duPont gardens will be toured Friday and the museum on Saturday. The group will stay at the Holiday Hotel Friday and return to Cumberland Saturday night. Reservations are limited to 30 persons. Anyone who is interested in attending may obtain additional details by calling Mrs. Guy Bradburn, PA 2-3185; Mrs. Gibson, 729-1250, or any member of the Garden Club.

Judge Carrey E. Quinn of Bealeton was guest speaker. His topic was "Daffodils — a Lazy Man's Garden," which he illustrated with slides. Judge Quinn spoke on the horticulture of bulbs in general, but stressed daffodils and touched on iris and day lilies. He was accompanied by Mrs. Quinn.

The next meeting of the club will be April 8 at the club house.

Workshop Scheduled

An arts and crafts workshop will be conducted by Mrs. Forrest Snider at the extension office March 29. It will begin at 10 a.m. Each chairman may bring one other person with her.

Each is to bring some form of art or craft that their club has as a project and be prepared to demonstrate to the others.

Miss Mary Wise suggests that if the club does not have such a project for the chairman to bring something she has made and thinks others would be interested in knowing about. Also bring directions for making it.

The morning session will be showing and talking about things the chairmen bring. The afternoon will be a demonstration in tissue painting and crafts with tissue paper colored.

Each is to bring her own lunch.

Cresap Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will have a program on "The Versatile Paul Revere" by Miss Mary Brengle at the meeting to be held today. It will be at the home of Mrs. Jack Towler, 229 Baltimore Avenue, at 2 p.m.

Sport Club Will Meet

The monthly dinner meeting of the Woman's Sport Club will be held tonight at 6:30 at Cas Taylor's Dugout. Mrs. Frances Aman will preside.

Mrs. Lona Daum is chairman of arrangements. She is being assisted by Mrs. Agnes Hersh and Mrs. Mabel Pierce.

Social Chart

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

The debut of a baby is a happy event, indeed. Smiles reign all around. You feel relaxed and rested. Once home from the hospital, however, try to use your strength sparingly.

Offers of help are worth their weight in "breathers" for you. Simple, easy-to-prepare meals, with things like frozen casseroles, are energy-saving. A few minutes rest before you're tired do more for you than an hour when you're plumb tucked out. A change of shoes, at least once a day, is a foot 'n body perk-upper.

Today's babies advance at such a fast pace, they're ready for solid food almost before you believe it. (Usually cereal at first.) Gerber Baby Cereals are specifically designed with your baby's early nutritional needs in mind. They're enriched with a special kind of iron that's easily absorbed by wee ones. Calcium and B-vitamins are also added to further your baby's nutritional well-being.

Bottle-fed or breast-fed babies soon need vitamin C for sound gums and body tissues; the development of strong bones and teeth. Gerber Strained Orange or Apple Juice provide two excellent ways to start your baby on this important vitamin. The Orange Juice has natural vitamin C-enriched. Both are pasteurized for baby's protection. Gerber Baby Foods, Fremont, Michigan.

Bringing Up Baby

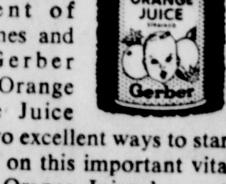

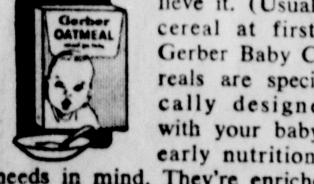

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

The debut of a baby is a happy event, indeed. Smiles reign all around. You feel relaxed and rested. Once home from the hospital, however, try to use your strength sparingly.

Chin chat. First-time parents are sometimes a bit dismayed to find that baby has almost no chin. All babies have receding chins. It's Mother Nature's way of making it easier for baby to feed from bottle or breast and feeding itself develops baby's lower jaw into a good strong chin.

Bottle-fed or breast-fed babies soon need vitamin C for sound gums and body tissues; the development of strong bones and teeth. Gerber Strained Orange or Apple Juice provide two excellent ways to start your baby on this important vitamin. The Orange Juice has natural vitamin C. The Apple Juice is vitamin C-enriched. Both are pasteurized for baby's protection.

Today's babies advance at such a fast pace, they're ready for solid food almost before you can believe it. (Usually cereal at first.) Gerber Baby Cereals are specifically designed with your baby's early nutritional needs in mind. They're enriched with a special kind of iron that's easily absorbed by wee ones. Calcium and B-vitamins are also added to further your baby's nutritional well-being.

Opening lead: King of ♠

"South, a player of considerable stature, went down to defeat in a grand slam contract as the result of a blind spot common to us all. The ironic feature of the situation was that, had his partner been the declarer, success would probably have been routine.

Seven spades was a sound undertaking and North and South lost little time in getting there. South's jump shift rebid of two spades is forcing to game. North's raise to four spades is well chosen, for it assures partner of the solidity of the trump suit and leaves him in perfect position to proceed. When South's Blackwood inquiry uncovered both missing aces, he bid a grand slam.

West opened the king of high.

Declarer was quite unlucky to run into a four-one spade split as well as a six-two division in diamonds. However, his failure might more aptly be attributed to a simple defect in his vision. His eyes were so firmly fixed on disposing of his losing diamond, that he overlooked a far superior method for producing a 13th trick, namely, ruffing one of dummy's hearts in his own hand.

It was correct for South to test the trumps first, but when West shows out on the second round, he should cross over to the ace of diamonds in order to trump a heart with the five of spades. Next he cashes the jack of trumps, enters dummy with the jack of clubs in order to pull East's last spade with the queen and, on this trick, he discards his losing diamond. Declarer's own hand is now high.

Natural Gas turns Lions into Lambs at less cost than other energy

March weather, it has been said, comes in like a lion and goes out like a lamb. Or vice-versa. Mostly, it seems, March starts and ends like a lion... with very slim pickings for the lamb in between.

When it comes to heating your home that old blustery lion weather gets short shrift. Reliable natural gas service provides a steady flow of heat that keeps your home as cozy and warm as a lamb—with no worries of supply or of changes in outside temperature.

And natural gas provides this lamb-like comfort at a cost lower than any other source of energy. Less than coal. Less than oil. And at less than one-third of the lion-sized cost of electricity.

Dies At Age 108

SCARBOROUGH, England (UPI) — Miss Emily Jubb, who had lived in the same house for 79 years, died Monday at the age of 108.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Never say Jerry Lewis isn't getting a lot of class into his next zany comedy. "Who's Minded the Store?"

He's signed Agnes Moorhead, who besides being a Shakespearian actress is a recognized drama coach, but it's not drama Agnes will be doing in the Lewis opus.

It's high wide and handsome comedy. Miss Moorhead playing the imperious owner of a large department store who violently opposes her daughter's engagement to a bumbling, out of work young man played by who else—Jerry.

News about her movie came the day I received a nice letter from Agnes telling me about appearing Sunday morning March 17th on Clair Roscom's fine TV show "Camera Three." She didn't mention the Lewis film — maybe she hadn't yet been informed she was elected.

One of the best of the plays written by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman was "Merrily We Roll Along," and this old hit has just been bought by Bill Perlberg and George Seaton for an MGM movie.

O. CARLYLE BROCK

Top Shriner To Visit Here This Weekend

Ali Ghan Shrine Temple is preparing for a visit this weekend of

O. Carlyle Brock, business executive, world traveler, naturalist, writer, lecturer and big-game hunter and who is serving as chief rabban of the Imperial Council of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine for North America.

Brock, a native of Glen Sutton, Quebec, Canada, and a resident of Erie, Pa., will be flown here to address the nobility of Ali Ghan Temple on Friday, it was announced by Woodward D. Pealer, illustrious potentate.

The Imperial Rabban looks as the most probable person to be next elected Imperial Potentate. "We are extremely fortunate in having a man of Mr. Brock's caliber to address our nobility. It is even more fitting that his visit be made to coincide with our efforts to expand temple membership," Pealer stated.

Long a leader in civic undertakings, the imperial chief rabban, a 33rd degree Scottish Rite Mason, has held offices in local and national organizations.

Holder of a doctor of philosophy degree, Brock was educated at Sutton Academy, Stanstead, Westleyan College, MacDonald College, McGill University and Cornell University.

His official itinerary here calls for him to be met at the Cumberland Municipal Airport by A. Wayne Reed, past potestate of Ali Ghan Temple and past grand master of Masons of Maryland, and the local Temple's Provost Guard captained by Paul C. Haebelin.

Following dinner at the Shrine Club later in the day, Brock is to address Temple nobility after a brief business meeting. He is scheduled to depart from the Cumberland airport Saturday.

Bishop Sheen Meets East German Priest

Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, auxiliary bishop of New York, left Cumberland yesterday by private plane after addressing approximately 600 persons Monday at a fund-drive victory dinner for the new Sacred Heart Hospital.

Bishop Sheen, who spent the night in Cumberland, celebrated Mass yesterday in the chapel at Sacred Heart Hospital and then was flown to New York by Michael Riley, pilot for Lewis J. Ort, who served as campaign chairman of the drive which netted a total of $700,000.

Following the dinner at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club Monday, Bishop Sheen spent an hour at Ort's residence in LaVale relaxing before retiring for the night at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

The bishop, who works an average of 14-16 hours a day, was up at daybreak yesterday and celebrated Mass at 8 a. m.

An oddity occurred at the hospital yesterday when an East German Jesuit missionary, who was stranded in Cumberland Monday, talked with Bishop Sheen. The missionary was driving through the area Monday when he was stranded by snowy conditions. He spent the night at Sacred Heart and was greatly surprised when he was introduced to Bishop Sheen, one of the leading missionaries of the Catholic church.

The two missionaries reportedly talked at length about the mission situation in Germany.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Three months after our marriage my wife and I had a spat. She said, "I'm sorry." That was 20 years ago and she has never uttered those words since.

I have to be the one to give in, right or wrong. If I refuse, she turns on the ice and I get the silent treatment. This can go on for days and even weeks. Finally I decide life in a deep-freeze isn't worth it, so I apologize, even though I know she is in the wrong.

Maynard said his girl didn't like the conventional engagement rings so they decided on the band. Now, how do we explain this ring to our friends? It looks to all the world why.

Maynard did not react well to his father's criticism and says we are making a big flap over nothing. Are we?

— M AND D

DEAR M AND D: If Maynard and his fiancee don't care for conventional engagement rings they probably don't care what conventional people say.

Make no apologies to your friends for the girl's ring. You neither have to defend, nor explain your son's "taste."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a high school student 17 years of age. A few weeks ago I had an accident in my mother's car. No one was injured but the repair bill was $50.

My parents are making me pay for the damages which I think is fair, but I DON'T like the way they want to do it.

I get an allowance of $4 a week.

They want to take out $2 a week which would leave me poverty-stricken. I wouldn't have a spare nickel.

I want to pay the repair bill with money from my bank account. This money has been put away for my future education. I would return the $50 to the bank account when I go to work this summer. My parents have agreed

Out at Warner Bros. they are filming Hart's autobiography, "Act One" in which Kaufman figures prominently.

Bill Perleberg says, "Merrily We Roll Along" has a college background and it will have to be updated more in keeping with our present concept of college life." The Messrs. Perleberg and Seaton plan it as their next after their current "Twilight of Honor."

I wish Gina Lollobrigida, native Italian, would make up her mind about her citizenship. Now there's gossip in Paris that the Roman beauty is seriously considering becoming a French national.

Just a little while ago, Gina, her husband and son, were up to become Canadian citizens. There was a big to-do about her husband Dr. Miklo Skofic being a "man without a country" due to a legal mix-up of some sort—and they decided Canada would be their legal home. I don't know what happened to those negotiations.

But, apparently, Gina and clan are still in the market for a country—and France may be it. The glamor girl is refusing to discuss it—and I can't say I blame her until she makes up her mind.

Young Mr. John Clark Gable will be two years old on March 20th and his mother, Kay Gable, is taking him to Florida to celebrate his birthday. I told her I thought it was unfair to take my godson away. But Kay said she already had his size 4 clothes packed to leave Monday.

"The trip will do him good, and I'm sure it will do me good," she laughed. When I said I wanted to send a gift to my godchild, Kay suggested a "Star of Holland" red rose bush — it was his father's favorite flower and I'm planting a walk of them for John Clark," Kay said.

The Imperial Rabban looms as the most probable person to be next elected Imperial Potentate.

We are extremely fortunate in having a man of Mr. Brock's caliber to address our nobility. It is even more fitting that his visit be made to coincide with our efforts to expand temple membership," Pealer stated.

Following dinner at the Shrine Club later in the day, Brock is to address Temple nobility after a brief business meeting. He is scheduled to depart from the Cumberland airport Saturday.

Dumping Laws Are Discussed

During a discussion yesterday at the meeting of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners on establishment of garbage and refuse dumps certain regulations were cited.

Commissioner Robert Little Ebert said that he understands that no dump can be established until the Board of Appeals of the County Planning and Zoning Commission gives approval. This is in addition to County Health Department approval.

The board has received protests against a dumping area in the Midlothian section in an old strip mine cut. No action has been taken by the board in connection with the Midlothian dump but the commissioners have asked the Health Department to look further into the matter of dump sites in an effort to alleviate a bad condition which exists generally in the county.

Bishop Sheen Meets East German Priest

Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, auxiliary bishop of New York, left Cumberland yesterday by private plane after addressing approximately 600 persons Monday at a fund-drive victory dinner for the new Sacred Heart Hospital.

Bishop Sheen, who spent the night in Cumberland, celebrated Mass yesterday in the chapel at Sacred Heart Hospital and then was flown to New York by Michael Riley, pilot for Lewis J. Ort, who served as campaign chairman of the drive which netted a total of $700,000.

Following the dinner at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club Monday, Bishop Sheen spent an hour at Ort's residence in LaVale relaxing before retiring for the night at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

The bishop, who works an average of 14-16 hours a day, was up at daybreak yesterday and celebrated Mass at 8 a.m.

Following breakfast at the hospital, Bishop Sheen was driven to the Cumberland Airport from where he departed at 9:30 a.m.

An oddity occurred at the hospital yesterday when an East German Jesuit missionary, who was stranded in Cumberland Monday, talked with Bishop Sheen. The missionary was driving through the area Monday when he was stranded by snowy conditions. He spent the night at the Sacred Heart and was greatly surprised when he was introduced to Bishop Sheen, one of the leading missionaries of the Catholic church.

The two missionaries reportedly talked at length about the mission situation in Germany. Pealer stated.

Long a leader in civic undertakings, the imperial chief rabban, a 33rd degree Scottish Rite Mason, has held offices in local and national organizations.

Holder of a doctor of philosophy degree, Brock was educated at Sutton Academy, Stanstead, Westover College, MacDonald College, McGill University and Cornell University.

His official itinerary here calls for him to be met at the Cumberland Municipal Airport by A. Wayne Reed, past potestate of Ali Ghan Temple and past grand master of Masons of Maryland, and the local Temple's Provost Guard captained by Paul C. Berliner.

Following dinner at the Shrine Club later in the day, Brock is to address Temple nobility after a brief business meeting. He is scheduled to depart from the Cumberland airport Saturday.

Ann Landers . . . Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Three months after our marriage my wife and I had a spat. She said, "I'm sorry." That was 20 years ago and she has never uttered those words since.

I have to be the one to give in, right or wrong. If I refuse, she turns on the ice and I get the silent treatment. This can go on for days and even weeks. Finally I decide life in a deep-freeze isn't worth it, so I apologize, even though I know she is in the right. — M AND D

DEAR M AND D: If Maynard and his fiancee don't care for each other, she should move back when I apologize.

We have two children, no money worries, no drinking problem, and no pesty in-laws. I've never looked at another woman, although there are times when I wonder why.

Is it possible I've been right only once in 20 years? What do you suggest?

ETERNALLY WRONG.

DEAR ETERNALLY: I suggest that it would be nice if there were at least ONE adult in your family. Since your wife is operating at an 11-year-old level why don't you be the grownup?

She knows when she's right and when she's wrong. If two little words can thaw the deep-freeze, don't say 'em, for heaven's sake. — D

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a high school student 17 years of age. A few weeks ago I had an accident in my mother's car. No one was injured but the repair bill was $50.

My parents are making me pay for the damages which I think is fair, but I DON'T like the way they want to do it.

I get an allowance of $4 a week.

They want to take out $2 a week which would leave me poverty-stricken. I wouldn't have a spare nickel.

I want to pay the repair bill with money from my bank account.

This money has been put away for my future education.

I would return the $50 to the bank account when I go to work this summer. My parents have agreed

UCT Friendship Dinner Friday

Cumberland Council 179, United Commercial Travelers, will hold a friendship dinner Friday at 6:30 p.m. in Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Thomas J. Wotring, senior counselor, will be in charge of the program for members and their guests.

Scheduled to attend are Dennis Wilson of Martinsville, Va., grand counselor, and C. A. Perlman of Galax, Va., grand promotion director.

to abide by your decision. What do you say, Ann?

— CRASH

DEAR CRASH: You're going to hate me but your parents are right. Punishment is useless if it imposes no burden.

The alternative which you have dreamed up for yourself is too painful. Take your lumps like a good kid.

CONFIDENTIAL TO KOOKED UP KATE: Rejection is not the only reason a young girl would seek the affection of an older man. Sometimes it is a case of Papa worship.

Are your parents too strict?

You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Frostburg Rotary Briefed On Proposed New Charter

FROSTBURG — The reasons for the City of Frostburg proposing a new charter this year were outlined during a meeting of the Rotary Club by John Sullivan, city attorney and William Vogtman, city clerk.

They pointed out that city officials must have a freedom of movement to make decisions quickly if the city is to become progressive and forward moving.

The new proposed charter which was drafted with the aid of Municipal Technical Advisory Service, Bureau of Governmental Research of the University of Maryland, is to become effective April 9 unless 20 per cent of the registered voters of Frostburg ask for a referendum.

Following the discussions, a question and answer period was held.

Rotarians are of the opinion that certain sections of the proposed charter are not clear enough, either do not spell out plainly enough or else gives too much leeway to the Mayor and Council.

The Rotarians feel that no changes should be made in salaries "not less than six months previous to an election," in reference to Section 157 which gives the council the power to set the salaries for the Mayor and Council.

In connection with Section 183 providing for absentee voting it was expressed that men in the armed forces should be included. In Section 243 (d) eliminating requirement for individual notice to property owners whose realty will be affected by public improvements, many Rotarians feel that notice by one newspaper advertisement is not sufficient.

In his opening remarks, Mr. Vogtman said the city has grown from a $190,000 corporation in 1956 to one doing over $33,000 worth of business in 1962.

Right To Seek Court Action In Strikes Sought

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Maryland truckers argued Tuesday for restoration of rights to seek court stoppage of a strike while a labor contract is in force.

Recent decisions by the Supreme Court and the state Court of Appeals upheld denial of employers to obtain an injunction for breach of contract.

"The only remedy is to sue for dollar damages and this is a prolonged process," Marshall Brandt, officer of the Maryland Motor Truck Association told the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Damages Not Issue

"Besides, the employers are not interested in damages. They want to keep operating."

He said management is "not trying to take away the rights of labor to strike during negotiations for a contract."

But while a contract exists, many with no-strike clauses, and there is a work stoppage, Brandt said the employer ought to be able to ask a court for immediate relief.

Such court action was denied employers by a 1932 federal act and a 1935 Maryland law.

His promotion came as a result of excellent scores of written and practical examinations. Lt. Cmdr. A. W. Tiedemann, Jr., commanding officer of the division, and other officials and men of the division congratulated Metz at the last training session on his achievement.

Edelman is a labor lawyer and a Baltimore City councilman. He countered employers' claims of a desire to settle disputes by grievance procedure by saying he had gone to court many times to force them to arbitrate.

Mr. Getty said in his letter to Del. See that the present law permits a "bottle club" to operate in Frostburg. Those who are not 21 years of age evade the law by having someone who is of age buy the whisky and bring it in for them and a police officer has no legal right to make an arrest unless he actually detects a minor drinking under these conditions."

Training Plan In Hagerstown Is Under Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Florence P. Dwyer, R-N.J., said Tuesday federal funds were used illegally to train unemployed workers at Hagerstown, Md., for jobs in the Mack Truck plant there.

The firm recently closed its Plainfield, N.J., plant and opened a new one at Hagerstown.

Mrs. Dwyer said the federal government spent $50,000 for a worker retraining program at Hagerstown and some newly trained men obtained jobs at the Mack plant.

"This is the kind of economic piracy which many of us in the Congress feared might be encouraged by the Area Redevelopment Act," she said in letters to Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges.

She asked both men for a report on the Hagerstown retraining program which she said she would submit to the House Banking Committee.

Mrs. Dwyer said Mack is a striking example of a company which, under the area redevelopment law, is ineligible for federal aid.

"It has become obvious, however, that careless or improper administration of the act has brought about a situation in which the government supported this economic piracy in direct contravention of the law," she wrote.

Some 2,000 production jobs were lost to the Plainfield area when the plant moved to Hagerstown.

The government, Mrs. Dwyer said, provided job retraining for 60 persons later employed at Mack Truck's Hagerstown plant and also trained persons needed at other plants in the area which lost employees to Mack.

In the open test that tears 'em apart...the Daytona 500 Ford durability conquered the field

1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, and 5th

Daytona is no "private" test arranged by a manufacturer to favor his car's strong points. It is open competition—anyone can enter—and the one thing that is proved by its searing 500 miles is just exactly how well a car hangs together. At Daytona, Florida, on February 24, five brand-new 1963½ Fords showed the world what durability means by sweeping the first five places. And that has never been equaled in Daytona history!

The box score at the left tells the true story...car endurance that takes brutal punishment and comes back for more.

No proving ground can equal this kind of torture. Daytona was a challenge we welcomed, a chance to prove in open competition the essential durability that makes possible the silence, the solid road-grip, the ease of control, the balanced braking...and all the other things that go into Ford's concept of total performance.

These were the same 63½ Super

Torque Fords that made styling history at their preview at Monaco, and which were recently announced at your Ford Dealer's. They're yours now; get behind the wheel and find out for yourself what total performance means!

Featherbedding Nears Its End

When the Supreme Court ruled, the final judicial chapter to the drawn-out dispute over featherbedding between the nation's railroads and the unions was written. The verdict—that the railroads have the right to go ahead and revise the work rules—was hardly unexpected.

At every step, that right has been affirmed and reaffirmed. The unions were merely trying to postpone the inevitable.

But the unanimous Supreme Court decision still does not mean that the highball is up for the railroads. The track ahead is not clear, and some tricky going remains. The unions threaten to strike if they do not like the changes that are made.

The actual negotiations begin in Chicago today. Now that the legal underbrush has been cleared, the public has the right to expect that bargaining will proceed in good faith and speedily toward a fair settlement.

The public interest demands, as the Supreme Court noted, that disputes over working conditions not interfere with interstate commerce. The public interest also demands an efficiently operating railroad network.

And that was something that could not be attained as long as men were getting paid for unnecessary work or no work at all.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

Souring The Milk

You come into a town, as I did into Norfolk, Va., last week, and you find it concerned not with problems of world import but with an immediately localized case of rape and murder. This is evil in the form that strikes home at everybody.

The particular rape and murder that had Norfolk in an uproar was an extraordinarily repellent crime. A 14-year-old girl had pinned a notice in a laundromat that she wanted babysitting jobs. This gave a 23-year-old sailor with a wife and 16-month-old son a gruesome idea. He called the 14-year-old's home, said he needed a babysitter for the night—and then, after driving her off into a marsh, proceeded to assault and kill her.

This is the sort of crime that is making our society a ghastly one to live in. Not only is it hideous in itself, but it strikes directly at all ease in social relations. It poisons the milk of human kindness at its source, makes everybody distrustful of everyone else, and condemns people to staying home and gazing at the wall.

The institution of the babysitter was, in its origins, a happy response to a great need. People can't get servants any more, and young couples often work in towns that are far distant from their parents and other relatives. If they are to have any social mobility they must have access to babysitters in default of grandma or a live-in cook. The babysitters, teen-age girls for the most part, take jobs because they offer pleasant ways of making a little money. Usually the privilege of raiding the refrigerator and watching television goes along with the work. The whole business comes under the heading of fun as well as being a gratefully received service.

Now, the man who would take advantage of the innocent institution of babysitting to carry out a rape and murder is preying on the best impulses of human beings. Unfortunately, the contemporary world seems to be breeding more and more of this type of utterly depraved monster.

While I was driving out of Norfolk I noticed that many sailors were trying to thumb rides. They weren't being picked up. Though my own car was stuffed and I wouldn't have been able to take along an extra passenger anyway, I reflected nonetheless that I wouldn't have picked up a stranger even if I had had four empty seats. It's been a long time now since I have accommodated a hitchhiker.

Why? Because of the repellent cases I have heard about of hitchhikers who have robbed and even murdered their benefactors. A couple of years ago there were stories of particular stretches of road in Utah and New Mexico where the robbing and raping and killing of generous car drivers and their families was an almost weekly occurrence.

As I drove out of Norfolk thinking about the inhumanity of anybody who would repay kindness and generosity with a revolting assault, I thought back to my own young days as a hitchhiker. That was in 1920 and 1921, when the automobile age was just getting into its stride. I was working in California in an orange packing house, and whenever I had any time free I used to hitchhike from Claremont, near Los Angeles, down to Palm Springs on the desert. You could always count on getting a ride. Later I hitchhiked all over California, through the San Joaquin Valley and up into the great national parks of Sequoia and Yosemite. People were not afraid of hitchhikers then, for insofar as there was a criminal element in hoboedom it was still riding the rods of the freight trains. The automobile roads have only recently been spoiled for innocent hitchhikers by a vicious element that recognizes no obligation to anyone who is kind enough to accommodate a stranger by giving him a lift.

For a safecracker one might have sympathy. The safecracker does not betray generosity. If he plans a bank robbery, he must pit his skill against intricate locks, strong steel doors, and electrified burglar alarm systems. With the safecracker it is strength against strength, with no quarter given or asked. I could wish a man an easy sentence, with time off for good behavior.

But a man who would take criminal advantage of an adolescent babysitter or a kindly middle-aged car driver should get the book thrown at him to the full extent permitted by the law.

The Germans Gently Turn The Tables On U.S.

By Joseph Alsop

BONN
The outcome of Special Ambassador Livingston Merchant's long visit to Bonn would be downright hilarious if it were not so interesting and potentially significant.

In brief, German Defense Minister Kai-Uwe von Hassel gently turned the tables on the State Department theorizers and other thinkers of large thoughts who first floated the multilateral deterrence scheme which Merchant came here to expound.

Nonetheless, the question of cost remained dominant when Merchant reached Bonn. The estimated price tag was no less than $500 million a year for 10 years. And this huge sum was to be laid out for a force whose value was primarily psychological and political—costly admiral's gesture, indeed.

Stripped of technicalities, what happened while Merchant was in Bonn was fairly simple. The German negotiators headed by Defense Minister von Hassel and deterrors' missiles, instead of the much more costly Polaris submarines. This amendment was tentatively accepted by the Pentagon before the Merchant mission.

Technicians from the Foreign Ministry were as warmly welcoming as ever. They cheerfully agreed to the American formula for splitting the bill, one-third to the U. S., one-third to West Germany, and one-third to other contributing powers like Italy if Italy joins.

But they insisted on the undesirability of giving each contributing power a veto. They objected to what the American negotiators described in super-State Departmentese, as "the rule of sovereign equality." What if the Laborite Harold Wilson became British Prime Minister, the Germans asked, or what if the Italian "opening to the left" went too far to the left?

As anyone can see, this quiet German proposal revolutionizes the theorizers' neat scheme. If the proposal is adopted, what was to have been a mere deterrent of additional national deterrents, governed by a U. S. veto, will first of all escape from U. S. control though not from U. S. influence.

Secondly, the costly psychological-political gesture will be abruptly transformed into the germ, or first essay, of a European deterrent—for Europeans will be in overwhelming majority on the control committee. If these transformations are not agreed to, it is doubtful whether the Germans will go forward with the scheme. Hence the ball is now back in the U. S. government's court.

Despite the Congressional and other resistance that may be expected, President Kennedy will be wise to give prayerful consideration to the German proposal. To be blunt about it, the Western Alliance is ultimately doomed unless the American policymakers break their own long-ingrained habit of playing governness to Europe.

That is where Gen. de Gaulle is dead right. For Europe, conspiring including Germany, will in the end break out of the Western Alliance as now constituted, unless Washington concedes to Europe the fullest equality with the United States. To do this, the terrible nuclear hurdle must somehow be jumped, and this is what the Germans have now asked.

Study Shows Connection Between Gout, Angina

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many persons with angina pectoris also have a high concentration of cholesterol in the blood. This is one of the reasons why cholesterol and other fatty substances are blamed for hardening of the coronary arteries and why a diet low in animal fats has been recommended. But some victims of this heart condition have in addition, an elevated blood uric acid level, which we usually associate with gout. Does this condition have anything to do with an angina pectoris?

What happened? The amount of uric acid in the blood fell to normal limits within 10 to 21 days.

Dr. M. Eidlitz of Tel Aviv,

Israel, decided a connection might exist. He selected 24 patients with severe chest pain and a high uric acid blood level. He gave them probenecid, which is used in the gouty to lower the level. In addition, he recommended a diet low in meat and fish, which reduces the intake of the causative proteins (purines).

What happened? The amount of uric acid in the blood fell to normal limits within 10 to 21 days.

The Germans Gently Turn The Tables On U.S.

BONN

The outcome of Special Ambassador Livingston Merchant's long visit to Bonn would be downright hilarious if it were not so interesting and potentially significant.

In brief, German Defense Minister Kai-Uwe von Hassel gently turned the tables on the State Department theorizers and other thinkers of large thoughts who first floated the multilateral deterrent scheme which Merchant came here to expound.

This scheme for a multinational nuclear force, controlled by a multinational committee, was originally promoted—one may as well be blunt about it—not as a nuclear deterrent in the usual sense, but simply as a deterrent of additional national deterrents.

Each member of the controlling board or committee was to have a veto on the use of the multinational force. That meant an American veto, as well as a lot of other vetoes. Militarily, therefore, it was not at all clear why the multilateral deterrent would add much to the U. S. Strategic Air Command.

Politically and psychologically, to be sure, the scheme offered undoubted advantages to the Europeans. It would admit them to partnership in a strategic nuclear strike force—the sign of being a top power nowadays. Furthermore, the American nuclear warheads were to be handed over outright, without any two-key-carrying American sergeants eternally attached to them.

Above all, it was hoped that the multilateral deterrent scheme would keep the Germans happy in the face of the potential temptations of Gen. de Gaulle's force de frappe. The scheme was in fact warmly welcomed in Bonn when first presented here some weeks ago.

The German Defense Ministry even contributed an amendment, by suggesting the possible use of surface ships to carry the new deterritors' missiles, instead of the much more costly Polaris submarines. This amendment was tentatively accepted by the Pentagon before the Merchant mission.

Nonetheless, the question of cost remained dominant when Merchant reached Bonn. The estimated price tag was no less than $500 million a year for 10 years. And this huge sum was to be laid out for a force whose value was primarily psychological and political—costly adman's gesture, indeed.

They objected to what the American negotiators described, in super-State Departmentese, as "the rule of sovereign equality." What if the Laborite Harold Wilson became British Prime Minister, the Germans asked, or what if the Italian "opening to the left" went too far to the left?

Secondly, the costly psychological-political gesture will be abruptly transformed into the germ, or first essay, of a European deterrent—for Europeans will be in overwhelming majority on the control committee. If these transformations are not agreed to, it is doubtful whether the Germans will go forward with the scheme. Hence the ball is now back in the U. S. government's court.

As anyone can see, this quiet German proposal revolutionizes the theorizers' neat scheme. If the proposal is adopted, what was to have been a mere deterrent of additional national deterrents, governed by a U. S. veto, will first of all escape from U. S. control though not from U. S. influence.

Many persons with angina pectoris also have a high concentration of cholesterol in the blood. This is one of the reasons why cholesterol and other fatty substances are blamed for hardening of the coronary arteries and why a diet low in animal fats has been recommended. But some victims of this heart condition have in addition, an elevated blood uric acid level, which we usually associate with gout. Does this condition have anything to do with angina pectoris?

What happened? The amount of uric acid in the blood fell to normal limits within 10 to 21 days.

The blood cholesterol remained the same during this period. All but one of these men and women felt better after three to four weeks on probenecid, which is used in the gouty to lower the level. In addition, he recommended a diet low in meat and fish, which reduces the intake of the causative proteins (purines).

Shortly thereafter, Dr. Eidlitz gave sugar-coated inert tablets resembling probenecid to eight of the 24 persons in the group. Within three or four weeks, seven of the eight felt well. Chest pain returned, especially after exertion, and blood tests showed elevation of the uric acid level.

This is the second such study along this line that has come to my attention. In addition, reports have appeared that high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries develop at an earlier age in the gouty. As a result, young male victims of gout are said to have more heart attacks.

The spleen enlarges in several diseases such as leukemia, Hodgkin's, and cirrhosis of the liver. Temporary enlargement of the organ occurs in malaria and in infectious diseases such as influenza, typhus, and typhoid. Nothing need be done about the spleen in these conditions because the enlargement is an incidental finding.

New Clinton, Tenn. High School Monument To Better Understanding

By Drew Pearson

CLINTON, Tenn. It was a little over five years ago that three charges of dynamite ripped open the Clinton High School in the foothills of Eastern Tennessee in an explosion which shattered American prestige in Africa and parts of Asia.

The explosion came at the height of the desegregation crisis and on the very same night the school board of Anderson County had met to plan new junior high school. Its members awoke early next morning to find their senior high school a mass of demolished cinder block, broken glass, bulging walls, twisted desks and tables, with plaster scattered everywhere.

Dynamiters with hatred in their hearts had torn holes in America's proud tradition of love thy neighbor as thyself.

Strong men wept as they surveyed the wreckage of torn books, twisted lockers that once held children's sweaters and lunch boxes, and broken glass everywhere.

However, the school board followed the advice of Gov. Frank Clement, "to show those dynamiters that Clinton High School isn't going to be closed for a single day," by holding classes in the gymnasium, then moving to an old schoolhouse in Oak Ridge, then slowly—without much help from Washington—rebuilding their school.

Strangely the dynamiters who destroyed almost everything else in the school seemed to heed this advice. Perhaps more important, the rest of Anderson County has overcome a barrier. Very quietly this fall another county high school was integrated—in Lake City.

This is a mining community where Negro students have been going by bus to school in Knoxville and when the time came to integrate last fall, some of them wanted to continue in Knoxville. They dreaded the shock of integration. However, school board members told them: "No, we have class room facilities here at home and we think the community is ready for the change."

So the change was made—and accepted.

Another important milestone: R. G. Crossno, the dairy man whose milk was boycotted when he, as a member of the school board, went along with integration, has now won back his customers.

Slowly wounds have healed, hate has evaporated. It has taken time. But the little community of Clinton has not only rebuilt its school as a monument to law and order, but has cemented its human relations as an example to the world that people of different faiths and races can live together.

Cassius Clay Faces Severest Test Tonight Against Doug Jones

Louisville Lip
Favored To Win
Bout At Garden

Capacity Crowd
Assured; Gross
May Hit $500,000

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Cassius Clay faces the severest test of his brief but spectacular boxing career Wednesday night when he takes on dead-panned, strong-jawed Doug Jones before a capacity crowd at Madison Square Garden.

The all-conquering, 21-year-old Louisville Lip is a 13-5 to 3-1 choice to make the 26-year-old New York heavyweight contender his 18th straight victim in the 10-round.

"They all must fall in the round I call," trumpets brash Cassius. He first predicted Jones would fall in six but has since warned the unawed Jones he must go in four.

"Let him talk," has been the Jones' reply to all of Clay's boasting. "He's making me a lot of money. But I feel I can beat him."

Clay's talkathon in the streets, in the gyms, in the Garden and on several television shows has drummed up the most interest in a heavyweight personality since Joe Louis and Madcap Maxie Baer came up in the early thirties.

The handsome—"I'm the prettiest and greatest fighter"—6-foot-3, 205-pounder has so captivated fans with his glib gab that the Garden was sold out days before the fight.

This is the first pre-fight sellout at the Garden in the memory of the graybeards. It's also the first S.R.O. crowd since Sugar Ray Robinson lost one of his middleweight crowns to Gene Fullmer on Jan. 2, 1957. That one lured 18,134 customers and $194,645. New York and Philadelphia were blacked out of television.

At prices ranging from $2 to $12, 18,732 fans—including standees—will pay about $100,000 to see the fight. Another 150,000 seats are available in 40 locations in 38 cities in the United States and Canada for the closed circuit television at prices ranging from $2 to $7. New York is blacked out of the television.

This could gross about $500,000. If this some $200,000 to $250,000 would go into the promotional pot. At 30 per cent of everything, Clay figures to earn about $90,000 and Jones $75,000 on his 25 per cent.

Starting time is 10 p.m. EST. Cassius has warned the fans to come early.

"I might even take him out in one but then it wouldn't be any fun," proclaimed boxing's bard.

Herb Score Credited With Win Over Mets

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Dave Nicholson and Pete Ward, two newcomers in the winter deal with the Baltimore Orioles, drove across all the Chicago runs in the first inning Tuesday as the White Sox blighted Johnny Kuck's first comeback effort with a 3-1 victory over the New York Mets.

Nicholson drove in two runs with a double and Ward singled the third run across. It was the third White Sox victory in four exhibitions.

Three White Sox pitchers, toiling three innings each, restricted the Mets to only four hits. The starter and winner was Herb Score, another player on the comeback trail, who yielded just one single and fanned three.

Nicholson banged into the left field fence trying for Christopher's double, but emerged with only minor scratches on the knees and his right hand.

Giants Top Bosox

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants made it two victories in a row over the Boston Red Sox by winning 4-1 Tuesday.

Billy Pierce and Jack Fisher, pitching four innings each, blanked the Sox with three singles through the first eight rounds. Boston counted its lone run off rookie Bob Bishop, who struck out catcher Archie Skeen with the bases filled to save the Giant's third victory in four Caucasus League games.

Earl Wilson fired four scoreless innings for the Sox and ended the home run spree of Willie McCovey, who had cracked round trippers on his previous three appearances before coming here.

Colts Trim Cubs

APACHE JUNCTION, Ariz. (UPI) — A double by Dave Roberts and a single by Bob Lillis enabled the Houston Colts to come from behind Tuesday and beat the Chicago Cubs 6-4.

The victory squared the two-day series at one victory each between the two teams.

Carroll Rosenbloom Charged With Betting Against Colts

Judge Young Denies Request Four Be Held In Contempt Of Court

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A 3-year-old deposition charging that Carroll D. Rosenbloom, owner of the Baltimore Colts, made a big bet against the Colts in a 1953 game was revealed in Federal Court Tuesday by Rosenbloom's own lawyer.

The attorney, Jerome Doyle of New York City, said the charge was a lie and was made for the sole purpose of "assassinating Rosenbloom's reputation."

The deposition, by Michael J. McLaney of Miami Beach, stated that he joined Rosenbloom in a $55,000 bet against the Colts in a game with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Didn't Play Steelers

Doyle then told Judge George C. Young that the Colts did not play the Steelers in 1953. McLaney's attorney, Benjamin Schuman of Miami Beach, replied that McLaney had intended to say that it was a game between the Colts and the San Francisco 49ers.

McLaney, former operator of a Havana gambling casino during the Batista regime, and three other persons made depositions in a 1960 suit against Rosenbloom charging him with breach of contract in a stock deal.

Federal Judge Joseph P. Lieb dismissed the suit and ordered the record sealed, on grounds that revealing the contents of the depositions would humiliate and embarrass Rosenbloom.

In the suit heard Tuesday, Rosenbloom asked that the four persons who made the depositions be held in contempt of court, because the information was released to Pete Roselle, National Football League commissioner.

Judge Young denied the request, saying he was "of the opinion that the facts of the evidence do not constitute probable cause for contempt."

Sam Benton, a Miami Beach private investigator, testified that he personally obtained information contained in the depositions and handed it over to Roselle during an investigation into alleged gambling activities in the league.

Removed The Halo

He did this, Benton said, to "remove the halo" from Rosenbloom and to "show his true character."

Then when Roselle did not take action, Benton said he had 40 copies of affidavits about Rosenbloom's alleged betting habits made and distributed to NFL club owners at their meeting here last January.

Defendants in Rosenbloom's suit are McLaney; Robert J. McGarvey of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., a former Philadelphia detective; Richard Melvin of Miami Beach, and Larry E. Murphy of Miami Beach, McLaney's chauffeur.

In his opening statement, Doyle said that McLaney filed the 1960 suit "to use it as an umbrella under which he would attack the good name of Rosenbloom."

"Rosenbloom has had to fight this in silence," Doyle said, "but now he refuses to succumb and pay tribute."

Doyle then read excerpts from the deposition by McLaney. In it, McLaney said that he became associated with Rosenbloom "because of my betting background." He added that he didn't bet "as an equal partner" because Rosenbloom had more money than he did.

Started With Golf

They started out betting on golf matches, he said, then branched out to pro football games, and Rosenbloom also bet on college football games.

Speaking of the alleged bet in the 1953 game, he said, "Rosenbloom decided to leave several of his best players at home, but the Colts won the game and we lost the bet."

The Colts played the 49ers twice in 1953 and lost both games, 38-21, and 45-14. They did not play the Steelers.

Doyle declared that McLaney's deposition was "replete with contradictions and falsehoods" and was prepared for "odium" and "vicious" reasons. Release of the information, he said, constituted "the most aggravated insult to a U.S. District Court I have ever seen."

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Don Lee, got off to a shaky start on Tuesday but settled down to pitch the Los Angeles Angels to a 6-1 victory over the Indians.

Woodie Held led off the first inning with a triple and scored when the next batter, Tony Martinez doubled — the only hits the Indians made until the seventh inning when Max Alvis beat out a bunt.

Lee pitched four innings and was followed by Ron Moeller who continued the string of zeroes for the Indians through two more innings, allowing only the bunt single in the seventh.

Bob Leopold throttled the Indians for the final two innings.

Wilt To Fall Short Of His Record 4,000

Joe Judge, Former Big Leaguer, Dies

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wilt Chamberlain's late surge will fall short of his record 4,000 point total in the National Basketball Association last year.

The San Francisco skyscraper averaged almost 50 points a game last week, a figure that is about five points higher than his regular average for the 1962-63 season.

In games through Sunday, Chamberlain has scored 3,427 points. He has four games remaining to make up as much ground as possible. Elgin Baylor of Los Angeles is the only player in the league with a better than .300 game average.

Spicy Living, a 3-year-old daughter of Gallant Man, made her first start of 1963 a successful one as she dashed to a four and one-half length triumph over Pams Ego. Vapor Swirl was third in the field of six, followed by the favored Speedwell.

Cepeda is expected in camp Friday.

Dodgers Rally To Edge Cards

ST. PETERSBURG (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers rallied for two seventh-inning runs off Harry Fanok, Tuesday to beat the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3.

Moose Skowron, who has stroked five straight hits in the last two games, led off the seventh with a single. Frank Howard's infield hit, Fanok's second ball of the inning, a wild pitch and a force-out grounder on which Dick Groat dropped the ball accounted for the two taints.

The Dodgers collected eight hits, none off little Bobby Shantz, who worked three perfect innings during which he struck out four batters.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved wife and mother, Bernadette V. Hoenicka, who died March 13, 1959.
We will not forget you, nor do we intend.
We think of you often and will till the end.
Gone and forgotten by some you may be,
But dear to our memory you ever will be.
LOVING HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

Card Of Thanks

In our recent bereavement, we found comfort in the thoughtfulness of our friends. The memory of your kindness will always remain with us.
E. M. Montgomery

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved wife and mother, Bernadette V. Hoenicka, who died March 13, 1959. We do not forget you, nor do we intend. We think of you often and will till the end. And forgotten by some you may be. But dear to our memory you ever will be.

LOVING HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

Card of Thanks

In our recent bereavement, we found comfort in the thoughtfulness of our friends. The memory of your kindness will always remain with us.

Elmer F. Montgomery

Wife, Children, Friends, Neighbors and Friends both far and near who were so kind to us during the illness and following the death of our beloved husband and father. We especially wish to thank our pastor, Rev. John J. O'Farrell, and the Right. Ch. of "The Excelsior Class," "Women's Society of Christian Service," the pallbearers; all who sent flowers, cards and gave of their services to us and donated the use of their cars.

Mrs. Arthur J. Kasevich and sons.

College Here Gets Approval For Degrees

State Board Gives Its Authorization

The State Board of Education has authorized the granting of the associate of arts degree by Allegany Community College effective in June.

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of schools, has just written Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, president of the college, to notify him of the state board's action of February 27.

Sent with his letter was a copy of a resolution regarding accreditation of Allegany Community College adopted by the State Board of Education February 27.

This resolution notes that Dr. Pullen gave approval for the college here to begin operations in September 1961, with the understanding that final approval and the right to grant the associate of arts degree would be given by the State Board of Education after a period of satisfactory operation.

The resolution adds that the college is now in its second year of successful operation. Furthermore after careful investigation the college has been found to meet the requirements for formal approval and for the right to grant the associate of arts degree.

Dr. Zimmer reported last night that the college has five candidates for the associate of arts degree signifying the successful completion of the junior college program.

Commencement exercises have been scheduled for Sunday afternoon, June 16, at which time Dr. Edmund J. Gleazer, executive director of the American Association of Junior Colleges in Washington will be the principal speaker.

Circuit Court Will Decide Will Dispute

A petition seeking a decision on the validity of a purported will was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Last Friday the three judges in Allegany County Orphans Court signed an order that the three issues involved in the dispute be sent to Circuit Court to be tried by a jury. The judges signing the order are Hugh Stevens, Howard W. Vandegrift and John G. Blair.

At stake is the purported last will and testament of Mrs. Lavenia Coffman, who was a 66-year-old resident of 142 Main Street, Westport, at the time of her death last August 17.

A paper dated July 27, 1962, purporting to be Mrs. Coffman's last will and testament, was admitted to probate in Orphans Court last September 14. Her son, Charles Coffman, McCoole, qualified as executor of her estate.

Two daughters of Mrs. Coffman, Mrs. Pauline Thompson of Baltimore, and Mrs. Eleanor Swick of Westport, dispute the will. Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Swick raise three questions which will be decided by a jury in Circuit Court.

They are:

(1) Was the purported will procured under undue influence?

(2) Was the purported will executed by Mrs. Coffman while she was of sound and disposing mind?

(3) Was this purported will actually Mrs. Coffman's last will and testament?

Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Swick are represented in this case by Attorney Earl E. Manges. Mr. Coffman is represented by Attorney Horace P. Whitworth Jr.

Emerick Out Of Hospital

Dewey Emerick, 28, of 120 Mullan Street, who sustained possible back injuries Monday night when he was pinned inside an auto on Oldtown Road in two separate accidents near the intersection of Virginia Avenue, was discharged from Memorial Hospital yesterday.

Emerick's wife was driving along Oldtown Road when the car went out of control and slid into a parked car which was shoved out into the line of traffic on Oldtown Road.

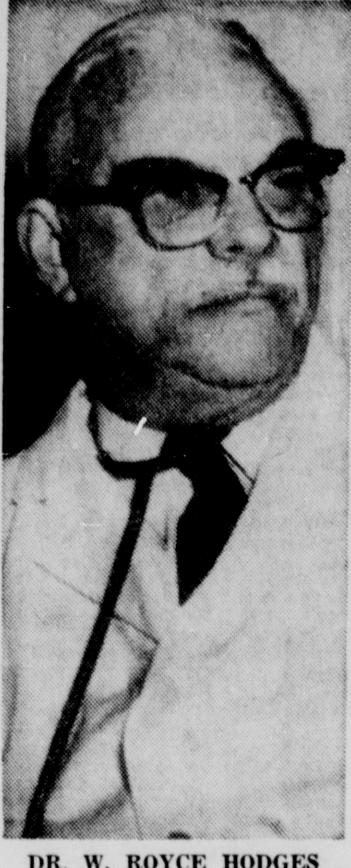

Neither Emerick nor his wife was hurt, although their 18-month-old daughter was slightly injured. Emerick got out of his car and into the parked car to drift it back toward the curb.

Meanwhile, a car driven by Homer D. Deneen, 110 Gleason Street, traveling in the same direction, struck the parked car, pinning Emerick under the steering wheel, city police said.

Mr. Walsh for a time was a law clerk in the office of Judge Soper, who died Monday night at the age of 90.

Local Obstetrician Is New President

Dr. W. Royce Hodges, Cumberland obstetrician and gynecologist, has been elected president of the Health Research and Services Foundation, the rapidly expanding participating service of County United Fund which daily goes about meeting many of the health needs of Allegany and Mineral counties.

Dr. Hodges, a veteran in the work of the Health Research and Services Foundation, succeeds Dr. Donald B. Grove, local surgeon.

Elected vice president at the annual meeting of HR&SF was Dr. Ernest E. Church, president of Potomac State College in Keyser, thus providing representation in the agency's scope of service for both Allegany and Mineral counties in the top two posts.

Chosen secretary was Raymond B. O'Rourke, long associated with the work of County United Fund, who has been serving the 30-agency federation as vice president in charge of public relations. He was told there is no limit.

College Here Gets Approval For Degrees

State Board Gives Its Authorization

The State Board of Education has authorized the granting of the associate of arts degree by Allegany Community College effective in June.

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of schools, has just written Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, president of the college, to notify him of the state board's action of February 27.

Sent with his letter was a copy of a resolution regarding accreditation of Allegany Community College adopted by the State Board of Education February 27.

This resolution notes that Dr. Pullen gave approval for the college here to begin operations in September 1961, with the understanding that final approval and the right to grant the associate of arts degree would be given by the State Board of Education after a period of satisfactory operation.

The resolution adds that the college is now in its second year of successful operation. Furthermore after careful investigation the college has been found to meet the requirements for formal approval and for the right to grant the associate of arts degree.

Dr. Zimmer reported last night that the college has five candidates for the associate of arts degree signifying the successful completion of the junior college program.

Commencement exercises have been scheduled for Sunday afternoon, June 16, at which time Dr. Edmund J. Gleazer, executive director of the American Association of Junior Colleges in Washington will be the principal speaker.

Circuit Court Will Decide Will Dispute

A petition seeking a decision on the validity of a purported will was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Last Friday the three judges in Allegany County Orphans Court signed an order that the three issues involved in the dispute be sent to Circuit Court to be tried by a jury. The judges signing the order are Hugh Stevenson, Howard W. Vandegrift and John G. Blair.

At stake is the purported last will and testament of Mrs. Lavenia Coffman, who was a 66-year-old resident of 142 Main Street, Westerport, at the time of her death last August 17.

A paper dated July 27, 1962, purporting to be Mrs. Coffman's last will and testament, was admitted to probate in Orphans Court last September 14. Her son, Charles Coffman, McCoole, qualified as executor of her estate.

Two daughters of Mrs. Coffman, Mrs. Pauline Thompson of Baltimore, and Mrs. Eleanor Swick of Westerport, dispute the will. Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Swick raise three questions which will be decided by a jury in Circuit Court.

They are:

(1) Was the purported will procured under undue influence?

(2) Was the purported will executed by Mrs. Coffman while she was of sound and disposing mind?

(3) Was this purported will actually Mrs. Coffman's last will and testament?

Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Swick are represented in this case by Attorney Earl E. Manges. Mr. Coffman is represented by Attorney Horace P. Whitworth Jr.

Emerick Out Of Hospital

Dewey Emerick, 28, of 120 Mullan Street, who sustained possible back injuries Monday night when he was pinned inside an auto on Oldtown Road in two separate accidents near the intersection of Virginia Avenue, was discharged from Memorial Hospital yesterday.

Emerick's wife was driving along Oldtown Road when the car went out of control and slid into a parked car which was shoved out into the line of traffic on Oldtown Road.

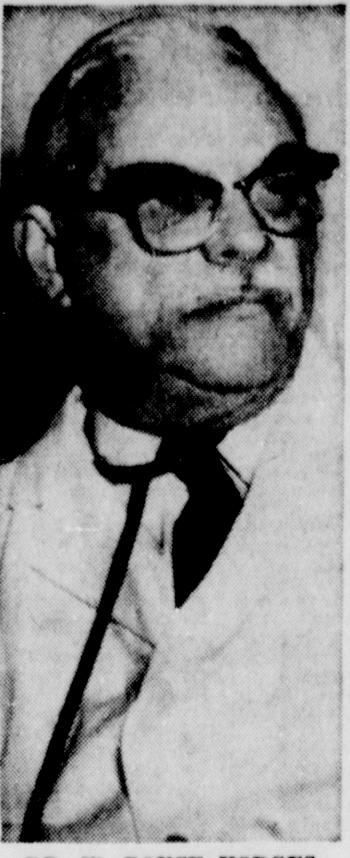

Neither Emerick nor his wife was hurt, although their 18-month-old daughter was slightly injured. Emerick got out of his car and into the parked car to drift it back toward the curb.

Meanwhile, a car driven by Homer D. Deneen, 110 Gleason Street, traveling in the same direction, struck the parked car, pinning Emerick under the steering wheel, city police said.

Special Day For Teachers Set April 19

Dr. Pullen Will Address Session

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster told members of the Allegany County Board of Education yesterday that Friday, April 19, has been set aside for a professional day for the county's 680 teachers.

There will be no school that day. Instead, teachers will converge at Allegany High School. Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of schools, will be the chief speaker.

Book exhibits and group meetings with consultants also will be arranged for the all-day meeting.

Members of the school board got conflicting opinions from two citizens attending yesterday's session.

John A. Nies Jr., 816 Trost Avenue, said he was opposed to the increase in the county school budget because of economic conditions in the county. On the other hand, Mrs. Muriel Smith of LaVale said she was wholeheartedly in support of the increased spending for schools. Both were told they should let the county commissioners know about their views, as the school board no longer has any control over the budget, having submitted it to the county commissioners last Friday.

In later conversation with J. Goodloe Jackson, president of the school board, Mr. Nies said he sends his children to St. Patrick's School. Mrs. Smith said two of her three children are enrolled at Parkside School and the third one will join them in September.

The school board gave formal approval to the appointment of Mrs. Linda Cover Finn as a new art teacher at Fort Hill High School. She succeeds Mrs. Cecile H. Erickson, who is becoming a resource art teacher.

Robert H. Herboldsheimer, a frequent critic of county school matters, asked Mr. Jackson several specific questions during yesterday's meeting. He wanted to know if there was a time limit for negotiations for the property sought for a South Cumberland junior high school before condemnation action would be taken.

Mr. Herboldsheimer also wanted to know if Mr. Webster's salary was increased along with those for the teachers of the county in the budget submitted to the county commissioners last Friday.

Mr. Jackson said the superintendent's salary was boosted $1,000 to $17,500 in the new school year. The board president said Mr. Webster's salary is comparable to those of other superintendents in Maryland counties.

Mrs. Richard Winer, vice president of the board, submitted a proposal that the board establish a citizens advisory committee on school needs. She suggested this as a means of getting more leading citizens actively interested in support of the school program.

The matter was held in abeyance until the May meeting after Kenneth R. Malcolm of Westerport said he did not expect to attend the April meeting as he will be out of the county.

All five board members attended yesterday's meeting. Other members are Mrs. George M. Young and T. Donald Shires.

They are:

(1) Was the purported will procured under undue influence?

(2) Was the purported will executed by Mrs. Coffman while she was of sound and disposing mind?

(3) Was this purported will actually Mrs. Coffman's last will and testament?

Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Swick are represented in this case by Attorney Earl E. Manges. Mr. Coffman is represented by Attorney Horace P. Whitworth Jr.

Sterilization Hearing Slated

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee voted a favorable report Tuesday on a bill to provide a daily period of silent meditation for elementary and secondary school children in Maryland.

The bill, sponsored by the committee chairman, Del. Thomas Hunter Lowe, D-Talbot, was amended to read that principals and teachers "may require" students to participate rather than "shall require."

Lowe said he was informed by the attorney general that the word "shall" would make the law unconstitutional.

The start of a 38-line preamble in the bill said the Supreme Court "has drastically curtailed the right of the people in this country to hold brief religious exercises in their public schools."

"Seemingly," the preamble said,

"the federal courts in this country are now taking away the right of a free people to give some brief and nonsectarian acknowledgement of their belief in the God."

Lowe said a period of meditation would not only permit worship, but also allow children who desire to think about atheism and agnosticism.

"I don't think the Supreme Court could challenge this bill," he said.

Del. John P. Moore, D-Montgomery, contended the preamble put the legislature in the position of lecturing the Supreme Court.

His move to reconsider the favorable vote and eliminate the preamble was defeated by a voice vote.

Hickman said the bill was a duplicate of one enacted in Virginia last year. He said 26 states have some form of legalized sterilization.

His proposal would permit adults to request such operations in writing.

Persons under 21 would require a Circuit Court Order, following a petition by the parents, guardian or friend.

Thirty-day waiting periods would be required before all operations.
